

Twenty-five Years, in Luck

When Special Deputy Sheriff Marter returned to Camden yesterday after taking Cemy Ridgway to Trenton to serve twenty-five years for fatally slashing former City Fireman Herbert Hibbs, he stated that the negro had expressed his regrets for his offense. Ridgway, who is well connected, having a brother a physician in New York, declared he recalled nothing about the tragedy and that no one regretted his act more than he. "I certainly was lucky to get off with this sentence," said Ridgway.
