

COULD NOT STAY AWAY FROM HIS GIRL BRIDE

Collingswood Youth, Who Was Separated From Wife by Court, Charged With Disobeying Order

Neither parental supervision nor a temporary court order was able to keep Edward L. Poore, of 41 East Collings avenue, Collingswood, from his girl-wife, according to allegations made before Judge Boyle in the Camden County Court yesterday. Poore had been given his liberty on the understanding that he would not see his young wife, who was Anna French, 15 years old, daughter of Mrs. Edna French, of Lee's avenue, Collingswood, and is said to have been kept in seclusion at 1712 Diamond street, this city, by relatives. Poore was yesterday taken into court on a charge of breaking his parole, but the matter was held in abeyance until Prosecutor Kraft's detectives inquired into the matter further.

On May 17 Poore and the girl, then a student at the Collingswood High School, stole away to Elkton, Md., where they were married. Mrs. French thought her daughter was at school and she was none the wiser when the girl returned, for she and her husband had made sure to get back the same day. When Mrs. French learned of the marriage she had the youthful husband arrested on a charge of abduction. Judge Boyle gave him his liberty with the understanding that he must not see his girl wife.

Mrs. Poore is said to have written letters to her husband and he with a friend went to her home. Poore alleges he had legal advice to do as he did and had no intention of disobeying the court.

NAMES RIVER COMMITTEE

Camden Council Will Co-operate With Other Bodies on Improvement

In furthering the plan to improve the Cooper River, Camden City Council yesterday adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of three to co-operate with the Harbor Commission, the Board of Trade and the Board of Freeholders. President Jester appointed Councilmen Frank Vanhart, C. H. Greer and George L. Bender as the committee.

It was shown that there are three features in connection with the improving of Cooper River. One is the necessity for enlarging the draws in the State street and the Pennsylvania Railroad bridges, another the suggestion to eliminate the large bend in the stream west of the railroad bridge and the third involves the creation of a turning basin at the upper end of the proposed improvements.

From seven to twelve years in State prison was the sentence imposed yesterday by Judge Boyle in the Camden Criminal Court on William Barnes, a negro, for firing five revolver shots at Louise Holland, a negro, and over whose affections the man was jealous.
