

CAMDEN NEWS NOTES

 Extensive improvements are being made to the interior of the headquarters of the Fireside New Year's Association.

 Special Officer Knox, of the Reading ferry, an advocate of the temperance cause, has placed in the employes' reading room, interesting literature bearing on the subject of teetotalism.

 Former Councilman Charles Lalrd says that houses are in such demand in the Eighth ward that if a hundred were erected in one day they would be occupied the next.

 Chasing a crowd of juvenile thieves Detective Harry Moffett fell at Locust and Kalghu avenue, yesterday, badly spraining his right leg.

 License Clerk John McCabe is up to his ears in work preparing liquor license applications.

 Dr. Walter S. Bray will deliver a lecture at the Free Public Library tonight on "The Microscope and Some of Its Wonders."

 The County Board of Taxation yesterday accepted the affidavits of the assessors of the several taxing districts relative to the respective ratables.

 Judge Joline will sit at the Court House next Monday to revise the registry lists. He, with Judge Garrison, will also sit on election day to straighten possible tangles.

 Despite the rain several hundred voters were present last night at the rally given by the Tenth Ward Republican Association at its headquarters, 618 E'm street. Ward and Assembly candidates made speeches.

 Word was received in Camden yesterday of the death at Yuma, Arizona, of Harry Whit, 27 years old, a popular young man who lived in the southern section of the city. He died from tuberculosis.

 While at work in the Pavonia car shop, East Camden, yesterday, Frank Yeaker, of 2905 Pleasant street, was injured by a heavy piece of iron dropping on his foot.

 Councilman John W. Coleman, of the Twelfth ward, has again tendered his resignation as a member of the Republican County Executive Committee.

 At an unprotected grade crossing at Beldeman station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Dr. C. F. Hadley, of 3320 Federal street, East Camden, and his coachman, Harry Matthews, colored, had a narrow escape from being killed yesterday. The driver gave the horse a clip and just cleared the tracks as an east-bound train dashed by.

 In all probability the meeting of the Teachers' Committee of the Board of Education will be of an interesting character tonight when the case of Miss Sallie Peacock, who has been denied a teacher's certificate, will be considered.