

AWAKES, FINDS THROAT OF HER HUSBAND CUT

While his wife lay asleep nearby, Frank McShay, aged 28 years, of 1222 Knight street, Camden, drew a razor across his throat early yesterday morning. Awakened by her husband's groans, Mrs. McShay asked him what was the matter.

"I've cut my throat and want to die," said he.

Other members of the family were summoned, but McShay fought against going to the hospital.

It was stated that the man had been out of employment for seven weeks, and that he became despondent because he could not properly provide for his wife, mother and three small children.
