

12,000 CAMDEN PUPILS MEMBERS OF RED CROSS

Children Have Paid in $3175 in Dues to Aid Relief Organ- ization

Just what excellent work is being done by Camden's public schools in connection with the Red Cross is indicated in the report of Superintendent Bryan, made yesterday, in which he shows that in twenty-six schools in the city there are 12,000 members who have paid $3175 in dues. This leaves a balance of but 4000 children who have not become affiliated with the organization and these are fast becoming members, so that very shortly virtually every boy and girl in the city attending school will be a member of the society. Dr. Bryan has suggested to Dr. Daniel Strock, president of the Camden County Chapter of the Red Cross, the following principals as a committee to further prosecute the work: Mrs. Margaret Thomson, Northeast School; Miss Dorothy Morris, Dudley School; Ralph Parker, Liberty School; Mrs. Mary Brown, High School; George B. Pine, Pensauken; Miss Emma Sumner, Collingswood; John Koorner, Audubon, and Helen A. Amelson, Helping Teacher.

Injunction Against Dogs

If the dogs of Henry Kingitt, who has a business of removing the carcasses of dead animals down in Erial, Camden county, are to accompany the wagons they are to act circumspectly when they pass the place of George Porter, a neighbor, according to an injunction advised yesterday by Vice Chancellor Learning, in Camden. At the same time Kingitt is admonished not to stop his horses or his auto trucks when they reach the rise of a hill near the Porter place, because the dogs might interfere with the peace of mind of Porter.

Acting as his own counsel, Porter, a gray-bearded individual, represented to the court that the Kingitts go out of their way to make things disagreeable for him. Always the wagons are accompanied by the canines, who are alleged to have spread themselves over the Porter place while the teams are rested.

In the decree given by the court it is stated that it is unusual for the Court of Chancery to act in such instances, as there is proper remedy at law.

Seek Possession of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Yoppello, who live just outside Hammonton, have obtained from Vice Chancellor Learning in Camden, under habeas corpus proceedings, a rule to show cause why Mrs. Catherine Pancoast, of Walnut street, Camden, should not be compelled to give them the custody of their 7-year-old daughter, Rosie. A hearing on the rule is scheduled tomorrow.

According to the allegations of the parents, Mrs. Pancoast visited them some months ago and she took home with her the little girl. Since then they aver they have made unavailing efforts to obtain possession of Rosie, the defendant alleging that another relative of the Yoppellos had let her have the child for an indefinite period.

Compensation Award

According to a ruling made by Referee Goss, of the Employers' Compensation Bureau in Camden, the Poth Brewing Company must pay Christian Heilmann, of 1234 Ellmore street, $10 a week for forty-two weeks for injuries received when he was struck in the eye with a hoop while he was riveting a keel. The man's sight is alleged to have been impaired.

John Ingersoll, of Haddon Heights, has filed an application for compensation from the Bethlehem Steel Works. Employed as a guard, he stumbled his great toe and fell on his stomach. Max Cutler, of 223 Kaishin avenue, wants compensation from the New York Shipbuilding plant for hurts received when he was struck by a steel plate. Hearings in these cases will be given next Thursday.

Complain of Stray Canines

Owing to the fact there have been a number of persons bitten in Camden the past week or so, there has been some speculation as to why the dog warden has not been busy getting stray canines off the streets. It was stated by Chief of Police Gravenor yesterday that owing to the S. P. C. A. having demanded that no dogs be placed in the public pound during the cold weather they have been permitted to run pretty much at large. The present emergency has resulted in orders being issued that stray dogs be corralled and it was stated very shortly the streets will be comparatively free.

HERE AND THERE IN CAMDEN

Julia Thornton, a seaman, was brought from Philadelphia by Detective Jenkins yesterday to answer a charge of manufacturing moonshine out of the hindside of her infant son's bottle.

Charged with operating an auto truck without a New Jersey license, Thomas Wallace, of 1509 South Hicks street, Philadelphia, was fined $20 by the Recorder yesterday.

William Cheeseman, 25 years old, of 692 Avon street, was fined $10 by the Recorder for striking his brother, Neil Cheeseman, of 23 Senate street. The brothers quarreled over a board bill.

Mrs. Mary Green, 74 years old, of 232 South Thirty-second street, died suddenly Friday night. Cause given is a circumscribed death as being due to aneurysm.

Rev. William K. Fisher, editor of the Ocean City Ledger, will preach tomorrow morning 11:30 a. m. in the Kaishin Avenue M. E. Church, Camden.
